Renfrew Museum will welcome the holiday season with special evening tours, Monday, December 13, from 7 to 9 p.m.

Highlighting the evening will be festive music played by a string quarter from the American Arts Ensemble featuring Paul and Marion Chalfant, Becky Coble, and Jere Stern. The Ensemble, again demonstrates its depth by providing period music in an appropriate setting.

Visitors to the Museum will see Christmas decorations arranged by Blanche Dukehart, Ed and Mary Jane Miller, Katherine Kirkpatrick, and the Renfrew staff. The Antietam Garden Club, represented by Lib Brown and Sara Thompson, donated and wrapped railings outside the house with laurel rope.

Visitors will also see cast iron toys from the collection of Rolan Trone; a doll collection by Blanche Dukehart; toys and other decorations are being loaned to the exhibit by Helen Hoffman, Valerie King, and Joseph Gilbert.

Come to Renfrew and see the Museum at night, decorated for Christmas. Punch and holiday cookies will be served. Admission is 75¢ per person.
